

County Finance Committee trims expected budget deficit

By ROBERT H. NELLIS
The Finance Committee of the Lee County Board today pared the expected deficit in the General Fund for next year to $168,265 by transferring Civil Defense and Auditing Expenses to other funds and not considering any salary increases.

At the beginning of today's session the committee faced a deficit of about $275,000.

County employees have asked a pay increase of 12 per cent which is estimated to cost $50,000, if granted.

The committee has held all pay increases and requests for additional employees in abeyance until it is determined the anticipated deficit can be determined and then make these decisions.

At noon recess, projected expenditures in the General Fund were $1.89 million with expected income of $1.72 million, a deficit of $168,000.

The county nursing home submitted a budget for 1976 projecting a net deficit of $20,000. The projected deficit for operating the nursing home this year was $154,768 but today Robert Roillard, administrator, told the committee estimated revenues for the present year are now $570,000 and projected expenses will be $566,300, giving a net balance of about $4,000.

The committee is scheduled to have another interview with Sheriff Ray Nehring, whose budget request is $390,860, up from $376,948.

The sheriff asked the committee to approve two new deputies for his department for next year.

The committee has taken this under advisement and is questioning his system of paying overtime.

Dean Hamilton, certified public accountant, told the committee today Wage and Hour regulations concerning police overtime pay said it is based on a 48-hour week and on a 28-day tour of duty.

He explained police overtime is any hours more than 240 which an officer works during a 28-day period.

Nehring on Monday told the committee he paid overtime to deputies for anything over 40 hours worked in one week, but later amended this to being time worked more than 48 hours per week.

The sheriff said he paid overtime at the rate of $5 per hour.

Hamilton computed the overtime deputy pay on a 48-hour work week basis should be $4.40 and should be paid only for more than 240 hours worked for a 28-day tour of duty.

The County Services Committee asked the committee to raise the salary of Goldie Santos to the level of a chief of police which is $882 per month. Santos now is paid $602 per month.

The committee also asked the Finance group to raise the pay for Francis Bangston, zoning enforcement officer from $10,500 to $11,000. William Kant, County Service chairman, told the committee if a raise went through for all county employees, the animal control employee would be making more than Bangston.

Both requests were taken under advisement.

The committee decided not to make a levy for the Tuberculosis Fund this year because there is a present balance in the fund of $97,583 and the requested budget is $60,600.

A spokesperson for the County Health Department, who presented that budget, informed the committee the department's dentist, Dr. Gary Burg, had received a 10 per cent increase in pay from $22,500 to $25,000 in June which was the anniversary of his employment. Lowell Beggs, a member of the health board, said the board had approved the increase in pay.

This set the committee members to thinking what control they have over boards which operate under separate budgets but whose members are appointed by the County Board.

Acting on this, the committee scheduled a 1:30 p.m. appointment with State's Atty. Patrick Ward to find the legal answer to the question.

Dixon School Board gets petitions

By LENNY INGRASSIA
Community reaction to school-related matters surfaced Wednesday night with the presentation of two petitions to Dixon School Board members: one opposing increased teacher pay and a second petition from a group of parents at Washington School protesting crowded conditions in the first grades.

Deadlocked negotiations between the school board and Dixon Teachers Association prompted the first petition, mailed to the board and signed by taxpayers. Supt. of Schools Stanley Weber told the board a fact-finder's report, being prepared by Dave Dolnick, Chicago, should be presented by Friday.

The fact-finding process is the final step in the collective-bargaining agreement. It follows the failure of mediation proceedings to reach accord between the two sides.

Although the DTA has endorsed recommendations of the yet-to-be received fact-finder's report, the board has not taken such action.

If the board does not accept the report, teachers have the options of continuing to work without a contract, a possible walkout, or accepting the board offer of a base pay of $9,400. The DTA earlier requested a $9,600 base pay but has since stated it would accept the base-pay figure recommended by the fact finder.

Last year's contract contains a base pay of $9,100 paid a new teacher and extends to a maximum of $17,654. Under the board offer of $9,400, the maximum salary for a teacher with a master's degree plus 32 credit hours would be $18,236.

The petition reads, in part . . . "We feel that up to now the school board has been pro-teacher and anti-taxpayer for too long . . . the teachers have been treated more than fair in recent years . . . every year their demands become stronger and stronger and more and more unreasonable."

"They (teachers) do get yearly wage increases as their experience increases . . . they work 185 days a year minus snow days—get every weekend off—all summer off—all holidays—Thanksgiving vacation, Christmas vacation, spring vacation . . . Haven't you already offered them as much as you dare—do they think they are a chosen few . . .

"We are imploring you (school board) . . . to put a stop to this unending (spending) spiral and stand up for the taxpayers' rights."

Following reading of the petition by Weber, board members made no comment.

Spokesman for the Washington parents group, Tom Magdich, asked the board to consider the hiring of an additional first-grade teacher to alleviate overcrowding. Three classes of first graders have enrollments of 29, 30 and 31 students.

Magdich presented a petition signed by 123 parents requesting the additional teacher be hired. Magdich, who preceded his statements by saying he was not speaking as an attorney, but rather a concerned parent, said he was opposed to an earlier board decision to have teacher aides in the larger classrooms. "All it did was put one more person in an already crowded classroom," said Magdich. "We believe the problem can be solved now with another teacher and classroom."

Board President James Dixon, also an attorney, remarked "Space is a fundamental problem." That comment set off an exchange between the two attorneys.

Magdich: "What about having a portable classroom at Washington—would that solve the problem?"

Dixon: "I'm totally dissatisfied with portables."

Magdich: "I'd rather have students in a portable classroom than to have them in overcrowded classrooms."

Dixon: "Money is a problem with the portable and we feel an aide is adequate."

Magdich: "You use this term 'adequate,' we want more than adequate education."

Neil Petersen, board member, entered the conversation. "Is your child getting a lesser education—can it be statistically proven that by being in a larger class that he is not learning?"

Magdich: "There is a strong concern shown by parents who visited the classrooms on various days."

Dixon: "I visited the classrooms there and was very pleased with the conditions."

Magdich: "Maybe they knew you were coming."

Dixon: "We appreciate your coming here tonight and expressing your views."

Weber said plans call for studying of boundary changes in the Washington district "but were not sure if that is the answer either—you can juggle students around now and solve this problem but next year the problem will be back at another level."

No action was taken on the request.

Jerry Bunt, newly hired guidance department head at Dixon High School, told the board he will be requesting an additional counselor be added to the staff. "The counselor-student ratio is inadequate—there are too many students to do an effective job now."

Bunt called for initiation of computer record-keeping of student grades and other data which is now handwritten by counselors. "We're so tied up with clerical work that we don't have adequate time to counsel," reasoned Bunt. He also called for creation of a guidance advisory committee composed of students, teachers and administrators and a required testing program for aptitude and achievement evaluation.

Bunt said the computer record keeping would cost $2 per student annually—"I think it's a real bargain."

In asking the board for the new counselor,

Bunt asked "How effective do you want the program to be?"

The board denied a request from the Retail Clerks Union to represent the cafeteria workers in collective bargaining. Following review of a report of food service wages in the area prepared by Weber, Board Secretary Jerald Conroy said "I believe some adjustments should be made but I can't see where the union would do the board or the workers any good."

The board approved apparent low bids totaling $453,000 for construction of an addition to Eldena School, the center for the Lee County Special Education Association.

A general contracting bid of $305,498 was awarded to Robert Hallen Co., Rockford; electrical work to Engel Electric, Sterling, for $67,985; heating, air-conditioning and venting to John Sheet Metal Works, East Moline, for $44,890 and plumbing to Paul J. Loos, Sterling, for $27,925.

The addition will double the size of the school, adding classrooms, a mock living center, therapy room and administrative offices. Bids were opened Tuesday night by the Lee County Special Education governing board. The Dixon board acts as administrative district to the association and is one of five school districts which comprise the association.

In other action, the board approved an apparent low bid from Wohrley Heating and Air-Conditioning of $2,300 for heating plant and duct work at a project house being constructed by the high school Building Trades class.

—authorized the architectural firm of Philip Swager and Associates, Peoria, to develop plans for remodeling at Lincoln School.

—approved the hiring of Virginia Bittorf, Sterling, as a second grade teacher at Grand Detour School. She is a 1975 graduate of Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

Wholesale price index takes jump of .6 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prices for farm products and industrial goods pushed the nation's wholesale price index up six-tenths of one per cent in September, the Labor Department reported today.

The September increase in wholesale prices was slightly below the August gain of eight-tenths of one per cent, despite a 4.3 per cent increase in prices for farm products, especially for vegetables, milk and livestock.

Prices of industrial commodities in September increased seven-tenths of one per cent, the largest increase since last November when they rose eight-tenths of one per cent. Prices of fuels and metals led the increase in industrial goods.

Prices of farm products had decreased 1.5 per cent in August, while industrial prices had risen six-tenths of one per cent.

The Labor Department said it was unusual that although prices of farm products and industrial goods increased in September, the over-all increase in prices was below the August increase.

This occurred because the over-all index is adjusted independently for seasonal price variations, instead of being adjusted on the basis of its individual components.

The Labor Department said the procedure can lead to contradictory results in times when prices fluctuate widely, as they have in recent months. The department said it plans to revise its procedures in 1976 to eliminate such contradictions.

Another barometer of the nation's economic activity will be announced Friday when the Labor Department reports on the unemployment rate in September.

The jobless rate is not expected to reveal any major changes in the continuing problem of unemployment.

Unemployment was 8.4 per cent of the labor force — about eight million workers — in August. Wholesale prices in August increased eight-tenths of 1 per cent.

For the three-month period ending in August, wholesale prices increased at an annual rate of 7.7 per cent. A good portion of increases in wholesale prices are passed along to the consumer, especially in the food and fuel areas.

The administration considers the nation's basic inflation rate — that means after one-time price shocks are stripped away — to be about 7 per cent for the foreseeable future.

The Labor Department said Wednesday that the number of persons receiving unemployment insurance during the week ending Sept. 13 was the lowest since January. It said benefits were paid to 5.6 million persons, a decline of 194,100 from the week before.

It also said initial claims for unemployment insurance in the week ending Sept. 2 totaled 367,000, down 13,000 from the previous week.

Several government economists said Wednesday they expected a modest increase in wholesale farm prices in September. Prices at the farm level dipped 1.5 per cent in August after rising 6.6 per cent in July.

Economists say reports for a single month on inflation or unemployment can be misleading, and they prefer to look at results for several months in order to identify trends.

Sidney L. Jones, assistant treasury secretary for economic affairs, said that with respect to wholesale prices, the index for industrial commodities is more important than farm products.

Prices of industrial commodities increased six-tenths of 1 per cent in August, up from previous months, and Jones said he hoped this didn't signal a new burst of inflation at the industrial level.

There is scarcely an economist or politician in or out of government who thinks unemployment or inflation rates can be reduced much below 7 per cent next year.

Hirohito praises reversal in relations between U.S., Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan's Emperor Hirohito formally opened a two-week state visit today by praising the complete reversal in Japanese-American relations following the "tragic interlude" of World War II.

The emperor was greeted by President and Mrs. Ford at a colorful ceremonial welcome on the south lawn of the White House under chill, threatening overcast skies.

Full military honors were rendered during the ceremony, which signaled a new level of harmony between the two Pacific allies.

"Our peoples withstood the challenges of one tragic interlude, when the Pacific Ocean, symbol of tranquility, was instead a rough and stormy sea, and have built today unchanging ties of friendship and good will," the emperor declared.

In a strong and steady voice, the 74-year-old monarch said, "I feel immeasurably gratified by this happy development, and look forward with great anticipation to the future of our relationship."

In his welcoming remarks, Ford made no reference to World War II. He said, "At a time when the benefits of cooperation are mutually claimed, Your Majesty's visit symbolizes and strengthens the ties between our two peoples."

Ford said the restoration of peace and friendship between the two countries fulfills a goal they had made for themselves a century ago.

The red-carpeted speaker's stand was ringed by about 2,000 onlookers restrained by a rope barrier.

The ceremony opened as the President and Mrs. Ford emerged from the White House to greet the emperor's limousine, which was accompanied by three security agents running alongside. The two chiefs of state shook hands and seemed pleased to see each other.

Mrs. Ford presented a bouquet of roses to the emperor's wife, Empress Nagako.

The imperial couple arrived here after a two-day private rest stop in Williamsburg, Va. They will visit five other major American cities and several minor ones in a two-week tour that concludes in Hawaii.

The world's longest reigning monarch, the emperor has long wished to visit the United States. But recurring bilateral political problems have thwarted that ambition until now. He is the first emperor in an imperial line dating back 14 centuries to set foot on the American mainland.

The emperor and the President were warmly applauded as they stepped onto the platform, stationed on the White House lawn about 60 feet from the presidential residence. The two leaders were dressed in blue suits.

After the playing of the two countries' national anthems, the emperor and the President reviewed Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine and Coast Guard units. A Marine drum and bugle corps played military music.

Report of assassination plot brings border alert

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities say they have received no further information to assist their watch for three persons who may have left Montreal bent on assassinating President Ford and Japanese Emperor Hirohito, who is visiting this country.

The source of the report of an alleged threat on the lives of the leaders was not made known. But federal and state officials confirmed Wednesday that upstate authorities were alerted to watch for a blue station wagon in which the trio may be traveling.

"All the border stations in the area are, of course, on the alert and screening all vehicles in an attempt to find the people who are the subject of the look-out," said James Harrigan, inspector in charge of the Immigration and Naturalization Service border station at Champlain, N.Y. "Other than that, there is nothing new."

Hirohito is scheduled to meet with Ford in Washington today before heading for New York.

A Secret Service spokesman in Syracuse indicated Wednesday that the alert was prompted by a telephone call. But he said the supposed threat had not been substantiated any further.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman said the FBI alerted its Albany office when the tip came in, and agents there in turn alerted New York state police to watch for the vehicle, which reportedly had a California license. The FBI in Albany declined comment.

At least two of the three persons involved in the purported threat were said to be females.

A U.S. Border Patrol spokesman said there was no evidence that the three persons had crossed the U.S.-Canadian border.

Accused in burns to DDC resident

Larry D. Jordan, 19, Creston, an employee of Dixon Developmental Center, was arrested Wednesday in connection with severe burns suffered by a DDC resident.

Jordan was charged with reckless conduct by Dixon Police.

According to reports, Jordan was working at Cottage A-12 when he set fire to some papers being held by the unnamed victim. Police said the victim crouched down holding the flaming materials in his hands. His stomach area and right leg suffered extensive burns.

Jordan was taken to the Law Enforcement Center where he was released on bond and scheduled to appear in court Oct. 23.

Reasons for CIA probe

Why do some members of Congress fight and expose what your CIA does? This agency tries to inform the United States government on the detrimental moves that enemy countries are making against America.

It seems that you have many sympathizers or outspoken Communists elected to Congress or appointed by your Sec. of State Henry Kissinger to high public office.

These people are furious at the Russian Col. Michael Goleniewski, who worked with the Russian spy agency, KGB, then defected to the West with arrangement of your CIA. He exposed 240 members of the KGB.

A good reason why your politicians want to eliminate the CIA, which is one more step in creating a one-world government. TV and many newspapers blast your men who are risking their lives to help their country. All of us should give them protection for all the good work they have done. The same thoughts are applicable for your FBI.

The FBI has discovered that the Russian Embassy has monitored telephone calls to the White House from various government agencies, as well as long distance calls from your embassies around the world. Soviet computers are programmed to pick up messages from selected telephone numbers.

Why did your government allow American manufacturers to give, sell or furnish this valuable equipment if your government officials did not want you to be enslaved by Communists?

As the undermining of the United States has been increased, the efficiency and standards of the FBI are being lowered under FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

All wars are made by governments, there are no exceptions.

As for slaves, none have ever existed in any country at any time unless the political forces extant to support the practice. The schemers in most countries are planning deceitful wars and enslavement. We should be warned, but it looks like enough in Congress do not want American people to know.

Here comes Blair again

(Reprinted from the Chicago Tribune)

Former State Rep. W. Robert Blair, one-time speaker of the Illinois House, just can't stand to be off the public payroll.

He was thrown off the payroll by the voters in his district last year, but got back on again in January by having himself appointed salaried counsel to the House Republican minority.

It proved a temporary appointment. Rank and file Republicans objected to having Mr. Blair around as a paid hanger-on and there was considerable public indignation over his indulgent use of state airplanes after he had left office. So, he was eased out of the House post.

Now, here he comes again. He has been serving as a nonpaid public member of the Illinois Transportation Study Commission. His friends on the Commission have decided to improve his financial status by hiring him as a part-time, $24,000 a year "consultant."

We object, and certainly can't be alone in doing so.

The job isn't necessary—except to pay Mr. Blair a great deal of money for advice he was giving the Commission for free as a nonpaid member.

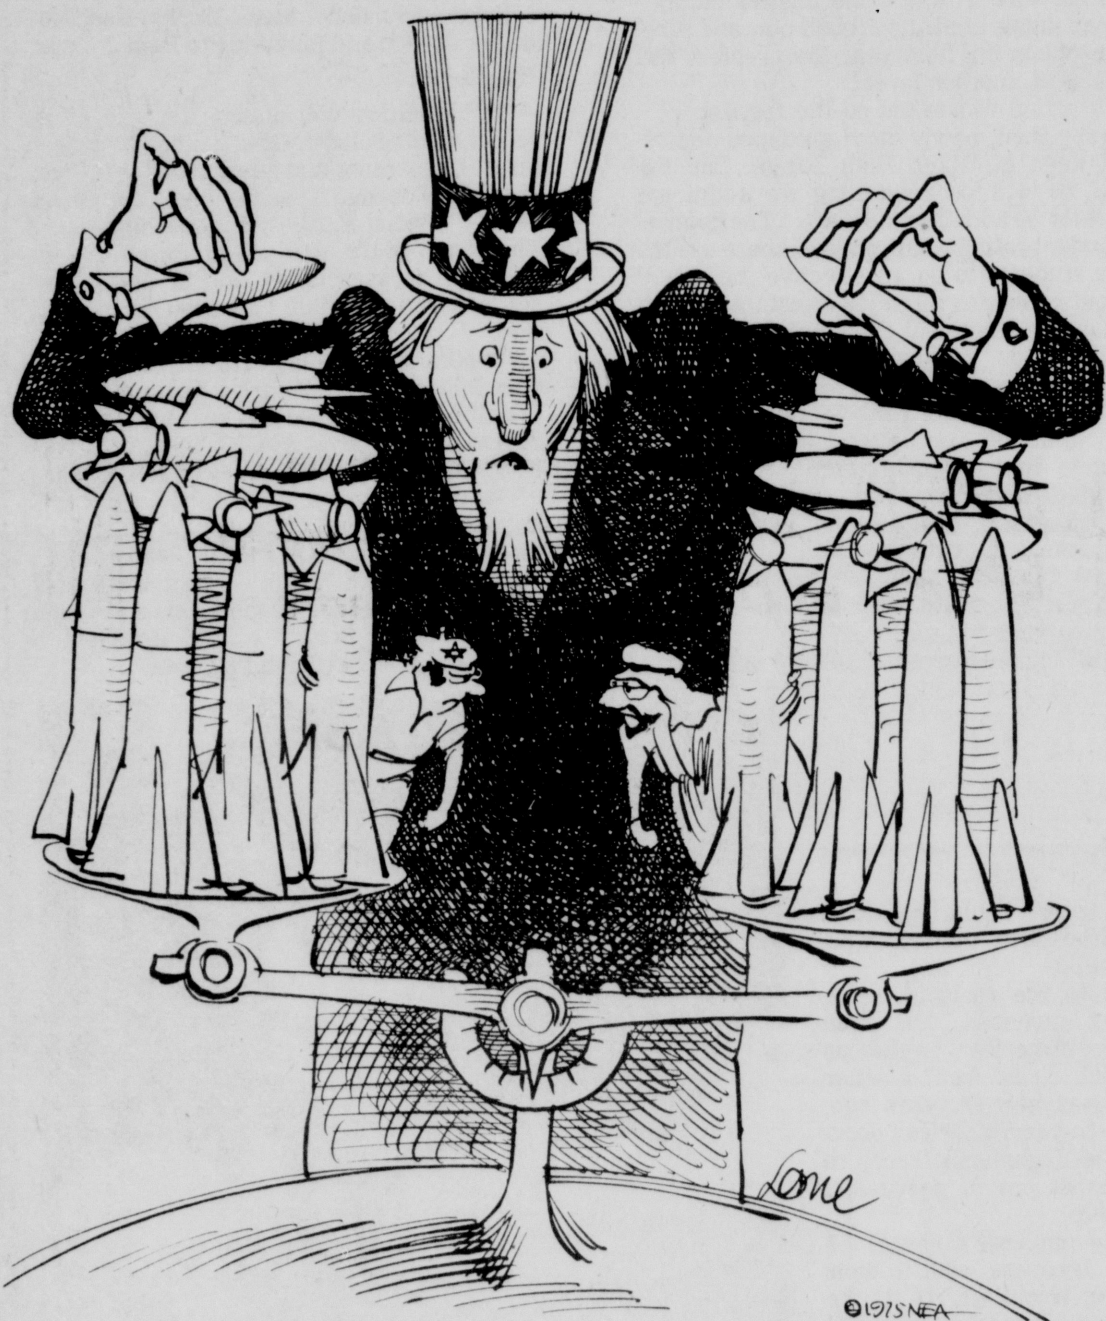

His chief qualification for the job is his political connection with the legislature and the Commission members.

He has a major "disqualification" for the job—his sorry record regarding the Regional Transportation Authority. Mr. Blair was a major architect of the RTA and helped assure legislative approval of it.

But when some voters in his district became angry with him for this, he turned around and tried to kill the RTA—disregarding the transportation needs of millions of people.

This is not the sort of transportation expert any state agency should consult—and certainly not for $24,000 a year.

"Hey, hold still!"

By DON OAKLEY

As every schoolboy knows, or is supposed to know, the American government is a system of checks and balances, with power divided among an executive branch, a legislative branch and a judicial branch.

But operating within this basic structure is another system of checks and balances, not written down in the Constitution and never contemplated by the framers of that document.

It is most apparent in Congress, where the division of power between the two major parties, although seldom equal and often greatly unbalanced, nevertheless serves as a check against the complete domination of that body by any one political ideology.

Even the power of the Supreme Court, however, is tempered by divisions within itself,

Unwieldy but there's nothing better and the voice of one court's minority often becomes the majority opinion of a succeeding court.

"The very process of dissent," says Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., "tends to minimize arbitrary decision making, assures a rigorous internal testing of the majority view and bespeaks the vitality of the court as an institution."

Justice Powell made this remark in an address before the recent meeting of the American Bar Association in Montreal, where he answered critics who charge that the Supreme Court's frequent 5-4 splits on major decisions are evidence that it is so philosophically divided it should not rule on novel issues.

Not so, says Powell. The strong differences indicated by the court's dissenters are both inevitable and "reflect a strength—not a weakness—of the court."

It can be argued that these unwritten "checks and balances" serve as often to check progress and change and overbalance the rights of the minority against those of the majority as do the written ones to prevent an aggrandizement of power by any one of the three branches. Much more efficient and responsive to the popular will, some say, is the British system, in which prime minister and Parliament are always of the same party and no Supreme Court exercises an ultimate veto over their actions.

Actually the American system is a consequence of the Founding Fathers' distrust of overweening parliamentary rule, against which they revolted. Curious and unwieldy it may sometimes seem, but it has, on the whole, served us well for 186 years.

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS— "The United States today is tired. Look at the sagging gross national product (GNP), at the lagging housing starts. But this does not mean we live less well than in the past. Also, it does not mean we have lived too high on the hog. Before we talk of lowering our standard of living, we should do what can be done to raise the standard of living for all people."

These were among remarks made recently by Sidney Bernstein, chairman of the Executive Council for Crane Communications, publishers of the Advertising Age.

He also quoted Philip Klutznick, chairman of the Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Development, "If we accept the present high level of unemployment, we will make the doom-sayers' predictions come true."

"The major expectation from the Bicentennial observance is that an injection of patriotic fervor will be good for this nation which now is not sure what its future is," said the Chicagoan.

A well-known spokesman for the advertising industry, Bernstein, talking to a group of journalists lauded the free press in the United States as the biggest and best in the world. He contended the freedom of the press is "broadly dependent on advertising for its life blood."

Bernstein also asserted being dependent on advertising has not prevented the U.S. press from being free of conflict of interests. "Although the press depends on advertising its only bias is favoring the free enterprise system," he continued.

The reason Bernstein assigns that freedom of the press depends on advertising revenues is "financial strength is needed to permit editorial freedom," and financial independence can be gained only if the business organization which publishes a newspaper consistently makes profits.

The need for a publisher to be financially independent is almost self-evident: It protects him from temptation to give an unwarranted favor to someone in exchange for an economic benefit.

The advertising spokesman declared advertisers are concerned only with space purchased and do not care about editorial positions taken by a newspaper.

"The social outlook of a newspaper is not important to an advertiser."

"It is often said whoever pays the bill calls the tune but this is not true of newspaper advertisers. What they purchase is a salesman to help sell their products or services," asserted Bernstein.

He asked newsmen what they thought would be better: One publisher with 100 to 1,000 advertisers setting editorial opinions, or having the publication's editorial position set by a religious organization, a political party or by government? He further queried if they thought 100 or 1,000 advertisers could ever agree on an editorial policy?

Bernstein contended multiple advertisers are the reason news reporting is not slanted to favor those who provide most of a newspaper's revenues.

"If advertising does not bolster a free press, opinion groups would take over news and editorial policies and no one would like that," summarized Bernstein.

He also pointed out it is the consumer who pays all business expenses, including advertising, and suggested it would be improper if those who purchased advertising determined news reporting and editorial policies.

In answer to a question, Bernstein discussed advertising to promote social issues.

"Social advertising is not good advertising. It is all for God and country. There is no way to judge whether the advertising is good or bad. Also, there is no way to test results," commented the Chicagoan.

He declared "people are not logical, man is an emotional animal," suggesting this is one of the reasons social advertising is not very effective.

In a passing remark, Bernstein asserted, "We are at the beginning of the end of our love affair with the auto. There is a flight away from bigness in cars."

A non-journalist who heard Bernstein's presentation commented the advertising executive did not come on as strong as he had expected he would.

Since it was my first encounter with the man who started the Advertising Age some 40 years ago, I cannot assess for certain why he delivered himself as he did. One hunch is, talking to a group almost entirely made up of newsmen, he might have come on softer so as not to get too much reaction from persons who do not appreciate the place of advertising in journalism to the extent which he does.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Medical care is probably the most regulated industry in the nation. Health is the field in which we invest eight per cent of our gross national product. We spend far more than the people of any other nation. Yet the state of our medical well-being is lower than that of other developed countries.

Prof. H. E. Frech III of the University of California at Santa Barbara, believes there's a connection between this over-regulation and other government-inspired actions and the inefficiency of our medical services.

The regulations are set up in such a way as to keep those of us who need medical care in the dark as to the best and worst physicians, the most logical treatment, and the necessity of treatment. We have no way of knowing whether the surgeon we consult is promoting more profitable business for himself or offering us the best treatment possible.

The regulations, like those in so many other industries, slow advances in medicine and the adoption of those advances made in the laboratories. They promote less-efficient and somewhat backward medical training and protect doctors who do not keep up with the times.

By limiting the number of physicians, both directly and indirectly, the regulations, in effect, establish a monopoly which enables doctors to charge considerably more than in a free market, without insuring more beneficial care or less fraud.

Health care cure deregulations?

A side result of tightening licensing for allied health occupations apparently is a lowering of the average skill level of hospital employees, though this cause and effect relationship remains to be proved.

One indirect result of government action—and inaction—apparently, is that hospitals, all too often, overcharge patients for pharmacy and laboratory services, X rays, and the daily room charge. By contrast, obstetric and intensive care and the emergency room seem to be operated at a loss.

As Frech puts it, "this latter may be a particularly unfortunate result of cross subsidization because much of what the hospitals prefer may be the duplication of sophisticated services which are rarely used, and is widely believed to be both costly and a source of very poor quality medical care."

Some regulations are allegedly set up in a way to help the poor get hospital care cheaply or without charge at the cost of the well-to-do. But the statistics don't bear this out. Recent studies, in fact, indicate "that the quantity of charity care provided by the typical voluntary hospitals is very limited."

The monopoly created by regulations has given the medical profession the power to fight attempts to lower costs for the benefit of consumers—for example, the strict claim review and prior authorization of treatment now demanded by some commercial insurers.

Says Frech, "the medical profession has fought such insurer controls in two major ways. It has threatened physicians who cooperated with loss of hospital privileges. Second, it has created insurance firms and endowed them with competitive advantages." Frech lists, as an example a boycott of private insurers organized in Oregon by a Medical Society for which it was sued under the antitrust laws.

Frech also notes that in Ohio, a medical insurance organization reportedly in effect controlled by doctors is being sued by the state for raising physicians fees, suppressing cost control methods of other insurers and hindering the establishment of health maintenance organizations.

While it may still be much too early to say even that one peut voir de la lumière at the end of the tunnel, Canada is showing distinct signs of progress toward the Trudeau government's goal of a functionally bilingual nation.

Perhaps in this case it's a matter of familiarity lessening contempt, but opposition to the equating of French with English as an official language seems to be on the downgrade even in provinces far from the French-speaking bastion of Quebec.

In Ottawa, federal civil servants in considerable numbers are taking the time and trouble to develop second-language facility—the knowledge that their jobs may depend upon it naturally being a strong inducement. And census soundings revealed a 30 per cent increase between 1961 and 1971 in Canadians speaking both English and French.

Such dividends are particularly gratifying to the government since it has a considerable investment in bilingualism, both political and financial.

On the major front, education, the government has been funding second-language programs in the provinces at the rate of some $100 million per year. In addition to "immersion" courses in which students acquire facility in a second language by exercising it in all subjects, federal funds also finance training of second-language teachers, who have been in short supply.

An effectively bilingual Canada from Atlantic to Pacific coasts is not to be expected in the reasonable future, if ever. But the Trudeau goal of a bilingual federal public service by 1978 does not appear unreasonable.

And if that deadline should not quite be met, no cause for despair. As they say, if at first you don't succeed—essayez, essayez, essayez encore.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-682: Lois B., aged 38, has a widespread sex dilemma! "Dr. Crane," she began, "the trend in recent years has been to limit the size of one's family to but two babies."
"And to attain this goal, all sorts of methods have been advised."
"When I was first married 20 years ago, various mechanical contraceptive methods were in vogue, plus the rhythm theory."
"Then the use of the 'Pill' has now become rather common, as well as intrauterine devices and various sterilization methods on both men as well as women."
"But some of these have scared women because certain doctors have said they might later cause cancer."
"Of what can a modern wife do to avoid too many pregnancies?"

frain from relations during this same rhythm week.
Since an alkaline douche (a teaspoon of baking soda per quart of warm water) seems to increase the likelihood of pregnancy, then childless wives should try this aid to conception. It also seems to predispose in favor of a boy baby, so if you have borne several daughters in a row, try the soda douche as a means of helping bring you a baby boy.
Acid paralyzes the movement of the sperm cells, so many contraceptive lactic acid jellies were devised to prevent conception.
Even a mild vinegar douche also serves the same purpose. Surgical sterilization of males involves a simple office procedure which consists of clipping the tubes that carry the sperm to the prostate gland. Clipping and tying off the female Fallopian tubes does a similar thing for the female.

Earlier this year, Johns Hopkins medics tested a new surgical method with women, which consists of entering the navel (belly button) and then inserting a set of tiny rings to close the Fallopian tubes.
The widely used "Pill" is a recent chemical contraceptive and a new post-coital tablet was introduced last March for use within 24 hours of rape or a crucial unwanted pregnancy.
The DES (diethylstilbestrol) drug carries a warning that if continued over long periods of time it "might" cause cancer.

Secretary should let boss make jackass out of himself

Dear Ann Landers: What can a secretary do about a boss in his 50s who is making a jackass out of himself? He is chasing around with some young idiot who works in this office and everyone is laughing at him behind his back.

These two fools have picnic lunches in parks which are public, yet they think nobody sees them. They ride around together during office hours (he also drives her home) and they act like the whole world is blind, deaf and dumb.

Last Thursday he told me he was taking off from noon till 4 p.m. to call on an account in a neighboring state. The idiot went with him. When his wife phoned 10 minutes later, I felt like a traitor because I didn't tell her the truth.

Should I face up to my Christian duty and tell him to shape up? Or should I keep my mouth shut?—Secretary To A Nut

Dear Sec: Who anointed you, anyway? Since when is it your Christian duty to tell anyone to shape up? MYOB, Lady. If your boss persists in behaving like a jackass, he'll pay the price. There's no such thing in this life as a free lunch.

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is sort of selfish. Please don't think I'm a rotten kid but I need someone to help me think this through.

Two months ago Dad died of cancer. He and Mom had a great marriage. There are two kids in our family besides me (I'm 15). The youngest is a boy, nine. Mom is 38 but she looks very good for her age.

Last night my kid brother asked Mom if she would ever marry again. At first she seemed sad, then said, "You might think this sounds strange but I would like to marry again because I had such a good life with your father. I'd hate to live the rest of my days alone. It would be sort of a put-down to him."

My brother started to cry and said, "Gee, Mom, how could you ever let another man take Dad's place?"

I'm ashamed to admit I felt the same way. If we are wrong will you say something to straighten us out? Thanks, Ann.—We Miss Him Awfully

Dear Miss Him: Two months isn't very long. The wounds are still fresh. But they will heal. And as time goes on you children will want your mother to have a full life. For a woman who has had a happy marriage it usually means another marriage.

No one will ever be able to take your dad's place, but surely you would be pleased if a kind, considerate man came along and could fill the lonely void in your mother's life. Save this column and read it again one year from now.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell those cheapies who squeeze a nickel so hard the buffalo gets a headache there's a new day a-dawning! The U.S. postal authorities have finally put an end to their sweet little racket. No more dropping letters unstamped into mail boxes and sticking the guy at the other end.

As one who has worked for a gas and light company for several years, I can tell you we were stuck plenty at the end of every month because people knew we'd pay the postage due on their checks if we had to. So they never bothered to put on a stamp.

I hope this news reaches all who haven't as yet caught on and are still playing those cheap little games.—Last Laugh Lulu

Dear L.L.: I'm right with you, Sister. Our office used to get stuck for two-pound manuscripts, 20-page letters—just name it and we paid the postage. But no more. Anything that isn't properly stamped ends up in the dead letter office. (Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Rogers-Walker exchange vows

ROCHELLE—Miss Gayla Jean Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Howard Rogers, Dixon, and Terry Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Walker, Rochelle, were recently united in marriage in a double-ring nuptial at the United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Thomas Howard officiated while Leah Anderson accompanied soloist Marla Kauble on the organ.

The church pews were marked with bird cages holding lighted hurricane tapers and each held arrangements of daisies, starburst pompons, foliage and baby's breath.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Howard Rogers, the bride was attired in an empire gown of dacron polyester trimmed with scalloped Chantilly lace, and designed with a high neckline, long sleeves and an A-line skirt with a detachable chapel-length train. She wore a veil of illusion with a lace border and carried a cascade of Jack Frost roses, white Butterfly roses, setphanotis, white daisies and baby's breath. Accenting the bouquet were touches of English ivy, fern and camelia foliage.

Serving as maid of honor was Diane Brown, Rochelle. Bridesmaids were Mardelle Finnestad, Rochelle; Marene Ryan and Norene Rogers, Dixon, sister of the bride. They wore gowns in pastel colors in pinafore style with a V-neckline, scalloped lace, baby doll sleeves and an A-line skirt. Their hats matched their gowns and they carried clustered bouquets of Elegance carnations, white daisies, baby's breath and assorted foliage accented with streamers in shades to blend with their dresses.

Best man was Jack Smardo, Rochelle. Ron Kenny, Tom Walker, brother of the groom, and Craig Miller, Rochelle, were groomsmen. Greg Nink and Scott Sandusn, both of Rochelle, seated the guests.

Participating as flower girl was Miss Sherry Griffith and Jae Taylor was the ringbearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the VFW club-room in Rochelle with Mr. and Mrs. Nick Agnos, Rochelle, hosting.

Since their wedding trip to Lake of the Ozarks, the newlyweds have been residing in Rochelle.

The new Mrs. Walker is a 1973 graduate of Dixon High School and is currently attending Kishwaukee College. She is employed at the Rochelle Beacon. Mr. Walker is a '72 graduate of Rochelle Township High School and attended Northeast Missouri College for a year. He is presently employed at the Rochelle Vault Co.

South can take away the ace-king of spades and still have an opening bid. Hence, in accordance with the rule of the ace and the king or just common sense his second bid is jump to two spades.

North has 13 high-card points and is the equivalent of an ace and king or maybe just an ace and queen above a minimum response. He intends to check for aces and then bid a slam, but first he wants to make sure that South really has a spade suit. Hence he temporizes with a bid of three spades.

South has nothing further to show, so he simply signs off at four spades. This doesn't stop North from going right into Blackwood and bidding the slam once South shows his three aces.

The slam is a very good one. It might go down with very bad breaks, but the way the cards lie almost any line of play will bring in 12 tricks. In fact, if East gets cute and lets dummy hold the first heart trick declarer will come in with 13. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Plant bulbs now for spring blooms

For a dramatic color effect in next spring's garden, plant tulips, hyacinths and daffodils in clumps of a dozen or more and do it now, says Bill Meachem.

"They've got to be planted in the fall because nature demands that they have a cold period before they bloom in the spring," adds Meachem, a gardening consultant. "But don't put them in straight rows unless you want them looking like a row of tin soldiers."

His advice is to dig out an area two feet in diameter and eight inches deep. Place a dozen bulbs in the bottom, pointed end up. Then refill the hole with the soil that was removed.

MAJOR COLLEGE HIGHLIGHTS

The Miami Hurricanes were to have been silenced to just a quiet breeze last week by Oklahoma, but the Winds are still blowing strong after losing by just three points to the Sooners. If the Hurricanes aren't becalmed by Nebraska
Saturday . . . the spread favors the Cornhuskers by 18 points.
Miami will really have weathered a stacked football deck!
Three games in particular involve no less than six of the stronger college superpowers. Michigan plays host to Missouri . . . Notre Dame entertains Michigan State . . . and Saturday night, Ohio State is matched against U.C.L.A. in Los Angeles. It goes without saying that the results of these games will have much to do with next week's national rankings.
Michigan will be Missouri's third straight Big Ten opponent and this will no doubt be the toughest. The Wolverines have been tied by Stanford and by Baylor in the past two weeks . . . Mizzou is still undefeated. We'll give a small nod to Missouri . . . about two nods worth.
Another headliner, this one really difficult to predict, features unbeaten Notre Dame and once-beaten Michigan State. The Irish haven't yet shown the strength of former Notre Dame teams, and the Spartans are coming back strong. Whoever wins, we don't think it can be called an upset

. . . they're just too close. We'll make the Spartans the slight favorite by just a point.
And in what just might be a preview of the Rose Bowl, the second-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes will be given the edge over U.C.L.A. The Air Force caught the Bruins looking ahead last week, and tied them. However, this will be less number one coming up for U.C.L.A. Ohio State will win by 17 points.
Checking our forecasting average, the rights still outnumber the wrongs, and I guess that's what keeps us in business. Through Saturday, September 20th, we picked 359 right, 121 wrong, and there were nine ties. The average: .748.
The normally intense rivalry in the Southeast Conference between Alabama and Mississippi won't be quite as heated this year. The Rebels are down . . . the Tide is still very much up and will be favored by 31 points.

BOB HARMON PREDICTS THE PROS SUNDAY, OCT. 5

LOS ANGELES 20

These two were studies in contrast in season openers. Rams did nothing right, Colts did almost no wrong. NFC West champion Rams to put smiles back on faces of home crowd.
MINNESOTA 35 CHICAGO 6
Vikings host first NFC Central foe starting head-to-head defense of division title. On paper, Bears really in over their heads. Minnesota (on paper) by 4 touchdowns.

HOUSTON 23

Bengals wanted to forget that Oilers were even in same division in '74. Houston whopped Cincy 34-21 and 20-3 in two meetings. Hostile country for Bengals. Oilers by 3.
BUFFALO 23 DENVER 14
Bills coming off biggie with Steelers, Broncos from Monday niter with GB. Denver won track meet against Chiefs in opener . . . Buffalo shellacked Jets. Bills' defense tough.

MIAMI 27

Packers' recent Monday nite tussle with Broncos will be no help in this date with Dolphins. Miami could be too tough too soon. Green Bay home club . . . no help either.

NEW YORK JETS 17

AFC East rivals were both 7 and 7 last year and split in head-to-head competition. Both started off with poor openers, so something's gotta give. We'll go with Jets.

ATLANTA 24

Match-up between last year's 3rd and 4th clubs in NFC West.
Saints won both meetings in '74. Falcons much sharper in recent opener against Cards. Atlanta by 4 at home.

BALTIMORE 16

Crystal ball turned its back on this one, so we're on our own.
Both won openers . . . Giants had fine pre-season — Cards won NFC East in '74. Quit stalling, Harmon. Cards!

OAKLAND 30

Fans might be inclined to tell Chargers not to even show up, but last year Raiders squeaked by San Diego once by 4, then by seven. Big point spread, but deceiving.

PITTSBURGH 33

This is tougher and closer rivalry than last year's final AFC East standings would indicate. It's top vs. bottom. Steelers won doubleheader in '74 . . . big favorites.

SAN FRANCISCO 27

In close contests, we have tendency — sometimes right, sometimes wrong — to lean toward home team. Statistics show no difference. Chiefs at home . . . slight edge to 49ers.

WASHINGTON 34

Another of the old rivalries, this in NFC East. Skins beat Eagles twice in '74, and Washington seems just as strong in
'75. Appears that Redskins will continue domination.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 6

DALLAS 20

Cowboys surprised Rams in opener . . . Lions whipped Packers. Defense big key in this Monday niter, and Dallas has huge edge in that area. Detroit is 6-point underdog.

ST. LOUIS 24

Crystal ball turned its back on this one, so we're on our own.
Both won openers . . . Giants had fine pre-season — Cards won NFC East in '74. Quit stalling, Harmon. Cards!

Americans invade the Persian Gulf—part 2

Despite high tax-free salaries, many find they can go broke

Editor's note — The salaries and fringe benefits are high but some Americans in the oil-rich Persian Gulf are finding they can go broke, as an AP Special correspondent reports in this second of three articles.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
BAHRAIN (AP) —

Americans who sweltered this past summer in the steaming Persian Gulf to sell billions of dollars worth of military and industrial contracts now are telling tales of woe and hardship. Inflation, running an unofficial 40 per cent in Iran and slightly less on the Arabian side of the Gulf, robbed them of their tax-free salaries like a thief in the night. A recent strike by 800 Bell helicopter instructors in Iran, most of them Vietnam veterans, was only one indicator of widespread and growing expatriate discontent at spiraling rent, education and food costs.

In their rush to train a whole army and build new prefabricated cities for the Saudi Arabians; to sell garbage trucks and oil refineries and fully staffed hospitals to the Iranians, Bahrainis and Kuwaitis; to enrich the Emirates of the bleak Trucial Coast with hotels, drive-in banks and fried chicken franchises, the American adventurers — side by side with their German, French, British and Japanese rivals — encountered horrendous housing problems.

In Tehran, where hotels are booked 20 months in advance, a Boston architect located a bed by having himself committed to a hospital.

Red Adair's oil well fire-fighters flew in from Houston to fight a field out of control off Dubai and promptly shot off some sparks about restaurant prices.

"Four steaks and a couple of drinks apiece set us back $120 at dinner last night," grumbled blowout specialist "Coots" Matthews.

Peanut butter, at $5 a small jar, is more expensive than caviar in Tehran. Gasoline is 48 cents a gallon in Saudi Arabia, but drinking water is 65 cents a bottle.

Massive port delays and shortages of material brought out by their billion dollar spending sprees have slowed construction of the American-style suburbs going up in most Gulf countries for families of foreign workers streaming in to build their new economies.

Most of the big contractors like Bell, Grumman and Westinghouse put dependent families up for 45 days or so in a hotel, and help pay the children's education costs, which at the already over-crowded Tehran American School involves $1,900 a year tuition per child. Many of the smaller subcontractors refuse to provide return air tickets for families of the growing number of workers who terminate their contracts before a year is out in frustration over inflated prices.

"The firms follow a carrot-on-a-stick philosophy," said engineer Ray DeManio of Shreveport, La., giving up his shipyard job in Bandar Abbas after seven months. "You gotta stay a year to get your ticket back home. If you hang around that long, you might as well stick out another five months to earn your U.S. income tax exemption. Then you might as well finish out your two years and get the end-of-contract bonus. I've been here long enough to weave a rug and I'm a thousand bucks in the hole."

Vietnam veterans hired to give military training can earn $1,500 to $2,000 a month and if they remain throughout their 18-month contract receive an additional $2,400 bonus. Grumman offers salaries ranging from $1,500 to $3,000 a month, plus housing and schooling allowances for families and an end of contract bonus roughly equivalent to two months' salary. The foreigners also have to contend with Saudi sandstorms, Tehran's all engulfing smog and chaotic traffic almost everywhere in the Gulf, where everyone seems to be learning how to drive.

In an attempt to curb the carnage of its highways, Iran has tripled its traffic fines to $65 for such offenses as speeding, passing a red light and parking on the sidewalk.

Muggings and racial incidents are almost unknown in the Persian Gulf but another kind of fear stalks the streets. In May, two American Army colonels were shot to death by terrorists on their way to work in Tehran, and an Iranian interpreter was shot and killed in an official vehicle near the U.S. Embassy. Terrorist bombs have been aimed at U.S. firms in Kuwait, and a number of American companies, like International Harvester and San Francisco's huge Bechtel construction firm, are moving their operations from Beirut because of Lebanon's continuing civil strife and Palestinian terrorist problems.

"We don't go out at night and we don't stand on the street corner in the mornings without briefcases in hand waiting for rides," admitted Bill James, Grumman's director of personnel in Tehran.

Doing business in the Persian Gulf entails other corporate hazards like paying $15,000 under the table to get a telephone installed in Iran.

Like the oil companies, U.S. manufacturing firms in the Gulf run the risk of being nationalized one day.

"Firms are becoming apprehensive of doing business here when they have to take all the risks and then go public if they turn a profit," said executive director Irwin Nye of the Iran American Chamber of Commerce, which has boomed from 20 to 280 member firms in less than two years and lists nearly 500 U.S. companies doing business in Iran.

Doing business in a rapidly expanding economy entails such pitfalls as sweating out two-month ship turn-arounds at the crowded Gulf ports and waiting five days to clear a cargo through customs. B.F. Goodrich, one of Iran's pioneer U.S. manufacturers, found itself burdened with a profit-sharing plan that prohibited it from paying less than last year's bonus, even if no profit was turned.

When
country
fiddlers get together

EVERY October, amateur fiddlers from all over the country meet in Barre, Vt., for the Northeast Fiddlers' Association's annual hoedown. Accompanied by a few guitars and a twangy saw, contestants vie in three divisions based on age (top photo). Performing for the judge, a contestant discusses the finer points of fancy fiddling which requires plenty of complicated "grace" notes (at the center). No generation gaps among fiddle fanciers as fans of all ages listen attentively to competitors at the Barre auditorium (lower picture).

Medicare costs will go up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons hospitalized under the federal Medicare program will be required next year to pay at least the first $104 of their medical bills, up from the present $92, the government says.

The Social Security Administration, blaming hospital costs that are rising 50 per cent faster than the cost-of-living, announced Tuesday it will shift to a new schedule of higher rates for most services starting Jan. 1, 1976.

The out-of-pocket charge for the average hospital stay will be raised 13 per cent from the current $92, the agency said.

The new amount is equivalent to the average cost of one day of hospitalization, Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said. The average Medicare stay now is about 13½ days and costs $1,400.

The new rates also mean Medicare patients will pay additional costs of $3 a day for extended hospital stays and $1.50 daily for long-term post-hospitalization nursing home care.

Of the 24.1 million people receiving Medicare coverage, 22 million are aged 65 and over and 2.1 million are disabled.

Beginning next year, Medicare beneficiaries who stay in the hospital more than 60 days will pay $26 daily for the 61st through the 90th day. Currently they are charged $23 a day.

For extended nursing home care after release from the hospital, the patient will be charged $13, compared with the current $11.50, for the 21st through the 100th day in a skilled nursing home.

After patients pay the initial charges, Medicare will pay all bills for the first 60 days in a hospital and the first 20 days in a skilled nursing home.

Medicare also provides a "lifetime reserve" of 60 extra hospital days that a beneficiary can use when he needs more than 90 days to recover from an illness.

Cipolla bares creek proposal

ROCHELLE—Mayor Bill Cipolla called a meeting Wednesday with members of the Kite Creek Drainage District Board. Cipolla asked the district board to relinquish its authority within Rochelle's city limits.

The move would enable the city to dredge along the creek and take other measures to help alleviate flooding conditions in Rochelle in recent years when the creek has overflowed.

Ralph Quest, president of the district board, questioned the legality of the action. He called for Cipolla to meet with him and Phil Nye Sr., drainage district lawyer, who would advise the district on the legality of the mayor's request. The meeting was set for Friday at 2 p.m. in Nye's office.

Two treated after accident

ROCHELLE—Two Lindenwood girls were treated and released from Rochelle Hospital Wednesday afternoon, following an accident involving three cars.

Jennifer L. Rodgers, 17, was driving south on Lincoln Highway. She told police that she fell asleep. Her car drifted to the right, into a parking lane. It struck a car owned by Gottenbert-Hill, Inc., Galesburg, pushing it into a car belonging to James P. Reagan, Rochelle. The Rodgers vehicle then proceeded across the highway and crashed into a building housing Dussenberry Bake Shop. Two windows at the Bake Shop were shattered.

Rodgers and her sister, Jeanne, 15, were taken to the hospital by the Rochelle Fire Department ambulance.

Jennifer Rodgers was ticketed for driving off the roadway.

United Fund reports total of $44,829

During the second meeting of the Dixon United Fund Report Groups, $44,829 was reported as having been pledged. The United Fund Campaign president, Pat Ward, and United Fund Campaign chairman, Dick Langenfeld, were very impressed with the figures reported to date by the efforts of the campaign volunteers. Deserving special thanks for excellent efforts were Ron Brandau, chairman of the Government section, and John Irby of the University of Illinois Extension Office section. The Extension office section reported pledges in the amount of $415, 151 per cent of their goal. In addition, the Public Service Division chaired by Barry Vail and Kenneth Hyatt, reported pledges in the amount of $9,254, 51 per cent of its goal. Deserving special thanks under this division was the News and Finance Section under the leadership of Richard Lovett and James Dixon. The News and Finance Section reported pledges in the amount of $7,732, 81 per cent of its goal.

The results indicate that the campaign goal of $100,000 is within reach. It is hoped that the goal will be reached prior to the last report meeting.

Way cleared for women at U.S. service academies

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of studies, the Army says that about all it needs to prepare West Point for its first women cadets is to change the bathrooms around.

Army officials have hit a snag trying to adapt the plebe's tight-fitting gray uniform for women, but they have given that problem to some outside designers to solve.

Women can apply for the Army, Navy and Air Force academies contingent on President Ford signing a military authorization bill which includes a provision for admitting women into the military universities.

The Army started preparing for women cadets last summer in anticipation they'll be entering the class of 1980 next July 6.

Lt. Col. Thomas P. Garigan, public affairs officer for West Point, describing Tuesday what the Army has done to prepare for its first class of women, said one of the academy's biggest problems was that "we knew darn little about women."

To get an idea of what changes might be necessary in West Point requirements, Garigan said members of the Women's Army Corps and other military women were tested on the pull-up, one of the academy's physical fitness requirements.

Farm chemicals now exempt from sales tax

SPRINGFIELD—Beginning this month, farmers can buy agricultural chemicals in Illinois without paying sales taxes on them, according to State Revenue Director Robert H. Alphin.

The director said a new law, sponsored by Rep. Roland Tipword of Taylorville and signed by Gov. Dan Walker, exempts from state and local sales taxes chemicals that are used in the production of farm animals and crops.

Among the exempted chemicals are water purifying products, insecticides, weed killers, stock sprays, disinfectants, poultry remedies, and similar medical preparations and conditioners.

The director said the new law would mean a substantial tax savings for the state's farmers.

Walker vs. Daley

Battle for control of delegation looms

CHICAGO (AP) — The battle for control of the Illinois delegation to the next Democratic National Convention is on.

"The Illinois delegation," Gov. Daniel Walker declared Wednesday, "is threatened by boss control, bossed by Chairman Daley."

Walker declared at the news conference that he is a candidate for nomination to a second term as governor. That move was no surprise.

But the announcement by Walker that he'll intervene in the delegate races opened the prospect of a political battle royale the like of which is seldom seen in Illinois.

"I want it known," Walker said, "that Daley-bossed delegates in Chicago, in the suburbs or wherever they may emerge—will be challenged."

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has been looking forward to a kingmaker role at the 1976 Democratic National Convention after his ouster from the last one in a credentials fight. Until then, he had been undisputed master of the Illinois delegation for 20 years.

The challenge by the maverick Democratic governor raised the possibility that Walker could use control of the Illinois delegation as springboard at a so-called brokered convention.

"I am not today making an announcement of my candidacy for president of the United States," Walker said. "On the other hand, I am not making a Sherman-like statement."

"Sure, I'm a human being. I've given it some thought," he said. "I think anybody would when mentioned for that awesome office."

3 thefts of radios

ROCHELLE—Rochelle police received reports Wednesday of thefts involving three citizen's band radios.

A CB radio was stolen from the truck of Franklin Danekas, 842 Wolff Court. Danekas reported that his pickup was parked in front of his residence when the theft occurred. He estimated the loss at $175.

A CB radio valued at $149 was taken from a car owned by Henry Lewis. Lewis's car was parked in front of his residence at 312 Wolff Court, in Rochelle, when the radio was taken.

Wayne A. Rhoades, Rochelle, reported Wednesday to police that two CB radio antennas were among items taken during a July 19 burglary. A Sears auto analyzer was also believed taken then, but the items' disappearance was overlooked when the theft was first reported in July. Total additional loss for Rhoades was $215.

Fall produce such as squash, pumpkins and apples are expected to be abundant. Live chickens, ducks, geese and rabbits also are expected.

Correction

Wednesday's edition of The Telegraph inadvertently stated that David E. Irelan was arrested on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor. It should have read that Gerald Maciejewski, Bloomington, was charged for the offense. The Telegraph regrets the error.

Lower convicted; will ask for new murder trial

GALENA, Ill. (AP) — Defense attorneys for convicted sex-murderer Robert H. Lower say the 37-year-old truck driver will ask for a new trial.

Lower was convicted Wednesday of the murder of Joseph Didier, 15, a Rockford alderman's son. Circuit Court Judge James B. Vincent of Jo Daviess County found Lower guilty of murder, murder involving a kidnapping and murder involving indecent liberties with a child.

The dead boy's father, florist George Didier, said the family was pleased with the verdict, but he expressed bitterness that the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled the death penalty unconstitutional.

Speaking for the family, Didier said, "We realize Mr. Lower is not a normal person, but through our antiquated laws, this person was released earlier for similar crimes and allowed to wreak his sick tendencies in another city, which consequently resulted in the death of our son."

William Kelly, Jo Daviess County public defender, said Lower would seek a new trial, and, if denied, would appeal Vincent's verdict. Kelly said the appeal probably would be on the grounds of improper evidence and the contention that the prosecution did not prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

The Didier boy was abducted March 4 while on his newspaper route in Rockford. His nude body was found March 15 in a cabin about 60 miles northwest of the city. An autopsy report on the boy showed he had died of strangulation—apparently from hanging.

Lower was arrested six days after the body was found.

Lower will appear for sentencing Oct. 27 and faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment on each count. The defense had attempted to prove him innocent by reason of insanity.

The prosecution entered into evidence a four-page confession in which Lower was quoted as saying that he killed the youth because the Didier boy could recognize him.

Defense attorneys called only one witness during the trial, Rockford psychiatrist John G. Graybill.

Graybill told the court that he believed that Lower suffered from a severe mental disorder and an "intense need for a satisfying relationship with someone, although it may be perverted or bizarre."

Graybill said he also had examined Lower in 1965 and 1966 after he was charged with molesting an 11-year-old boy in Freeport.

Graybill recommended at that time that Lower be held in Menard State Prison as a sexually dangerous person and not be released. Lower was held in the prison for a time, but later went free.

Graybill admitted under cross-examination that Lower lacked the classic symptoms of schizophrenia. In reference to the McNaughten rule, upon which cases of criminal insanity frequently hinge, Graybill said "He did it (the slaying) knowing full well, I'm sure, it was wrong."

The defendant's mother, Mrs. Leroy Lower of Shannon, was in the court when the verdict was given.

This is Nat Turner Day, commemorating the 175th anniversary of the birth of the man who led one of America's most famous slave revolts. Nat Turner was a Negro slave and a preacher in Southampton County, Virginia. According to his confession, a voice told him one day that signs in the sky would announce the time when he and his fellow slaves should rise against their masters. When a solar eclipse and other atmospheric disturbances occurred in 1831, Turner took them as the signs he was waiting for. Turner eventually was caught and hanged.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Benedict Arnold escaped and lived, despite his perfidy. But Maj. John Andre, his British accomplice, was caught and hanged, and it was 41 years before his remains finally were returned to England for burial in Westminster Abbey.

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
TAPPAN, N.Y. (AP) — It is called Andre Hill.

There, not far from the tavern where he was imprisoned as a British spy, Maj. John Andre was hanged 195 years ago — on Oct. 2, 1780 — for plotting with Benedict Arnold for the fall of West Point.

Andre was buried where he died. A plain monument marks the spot, but his remains are in Westminster Abbey, England. They were disinterred in 1821 and removed by the British consul in New York. He acted legally but secretly under cover of night when he heard that "hot spirits" were determined to throw the coffin into the Hudson River.

Only 10 days before his execution, Andre, chief intelligence officer for Sir Henry Clinton and adjutant general in the British army despite his youth (he was 29 or 30), had met with Arnold near Haverstraw, N.Y. Unable to return to the British warship, Vulture, which had been forced down the river by American fire, Andre spent the day in a farmhouse.

The next day, Sept. 23, Andre, disguised as a civilian but with a pass from Arnold made out in the name of John Anderson, was captured by three rebel scouts near Tarrytown as he tried to reach the British lines. They found in his boots details about the defenses of West Point, loss of which might have damaged irreparably the American cause. Arnold got word in time to escape by barge to the Vulture.

Had he been captured or exchanged, Arnold, who tried to sell out his command for 20,000 pounds sterling and a commission of brigadier general in the British army, would have been executed. Negotiations to exchange Andre for Arnold were undertaken but the British commander refused. British policy was against returning defectors.

Andre was taken across the Hudson to Mabie's Tavern at Tappan, close to George Washington's headquarters. There he was tried on Sept. 29 before a military board of general officers. The board found that he "ought to be considered a spy from the enemy; and that, agreeable to the law and usage of nations, it is their opinion he ought to suffer death."

Washington ordered the execution for 5 p.m. Oct. 1. Andre had appealed that he not be considered a spy, saying he had come ashore wearing his uniform and under sanction of a passport from Arnold. Clinton, the British commander, also appealed to Washington, who delayed the execution until noon Oct. 2, and then ordered it carried out.

Andre, dressed in a fresh uniform, was assisted in mounting the wagon beneath the hang-rope. He adjusted it and, according to a witness, said, "I pray you bear me witness that I met my fate like a brave man."

Maj. Benjamin Tallmadge, Washington's chief of intelligence, who had brought Andre across the river to his prison, wrote many years later: "I walked with him to the place of execution and parted with him under the gallows, entirely overwhelmed with grief that so gallant an officer, and so accomplished a gentleman, should come to so ignominious an end."

Forty-one years after the execution, James Buchanan, British consul in New York, expressed concern that "only a heap of stones" marked the place of Andre's "suffering at Tappan." He wrote the Duke of York, then commander in chief, suggesting erection of a suitable monument or removal of the remains. The Duke of York suggested they be interred in Westminster Abbey. Gov. De Witt Clinton of New York said, "Our laws interpose no obstacle to this measure."

Buchanan's narrative of the exhumation, written for a military journal, is included in "The Demarest Family," the history of a family that settled in this country from Amsterdam in 1663.

The owner of the field where Andre was buried, the Rev. John Demarest, was agreeable to the removal.

"With great care the broken lid was removed, and there in our view lay the bones of the brave Andre," Buchanan wrote. "The roots of a small peach tree had completely surrounded the skull like a net. After allowing all the people to pass around in regular order and view the remains as they lay, which very many did with unfeigned tears and lamentation, the bones were carefully removed and placed in the sarcophagus." This was taken to the Demarest home, with removal to a British ship in New York to take place four days later.

Buchanan said that on his return to New York that night he learned from "a citizen of the first respectability" that "some hot spirits had agreed that they would mark every citizen who should attend, and that they were determined to meet the procession on the way, and throw the sarcophagus into the Hudson."

He decided to return to Tappan the next night. He arrived at the home of the pastor, who "derided my fear" and said "he would guarantee all would go off well." Furthermore, the pastor said, removal now would "greatly disappoint numbers who were to come to his house next day to see 'the rare spectacle of so grand an article as the sarcophagus.'" He said he found Mrs. Demarest more inclined to his view and so the pastor reluctantly consented but still did not believe "there were such miscreants in the world."

Buchanan and his party arrived by carriage in New York at 5 a.m. and were taken by boat to a British packet where Buchanan said, "with feeling that never shall be effaced from my memory, I placed the remains under the British flag."

A snuffbox, lined with gold and made from a piece of a cedar tree that grew over Andre's grave, was sent to the pastor by the Duke of York with the inscription "to mark his sense of the Rev. John Demarest's liberal attention upon the occasion of the removal of the remains of the late Maj. John Andre at Tappan on the 10th August 1821."

As for Arnold, he fought for the British. After Yorktown, he sailed with Cornwallis for England, where he died June 14, 1801, at the age of 60.

His attempt to surrender West Point branded him forever a traitor. Washington called his actions "villainous perfidy." Historian Carl Van Doren called him "the Iago of traitors."

Arnold once told Talleyrand, the French diplomat: "I am an American. I was born there and have spent most of my life there, yet I am probably the only living American who can say, 'I have not one friend in America. No, not one.' I am Benedict Arnold."

It's no surprise that Datsun came out on top... we've been mileage leader or been tied for first place for 3 of the 4 years the EPA has been testing gas mileage! ## The Doctor Says:

Diet, as much as drug, helpful in heart woes

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I read a column by you recently about the man who recovered from angina pectoris. You ignored completely a very important fact, that the man discarded the use of nitroglycerin pills and by using "Questran" he cured his angina pectoris and became a completely rejuvenated 100 per cent new man. Why?

A lot on angina pectoris victims will marvel at this writer's playing tennis, bicycle riding, etc. at age 71 without any more heart attacks.

Why don't all doctors recommend Questran instead of nitroglycerin pills?

DEAR READER—No, I didn't ignore it. I just ran out of space. The man wrote primarily about the role of a low-fat, low-saturated-fat diet and the value of polyunsaturated fat.

Questran is a useful medicine in many patients. It acts by combining with bile salts in the intestine. This increases the elimination of bile salts through the bowel. Since bile salts are made from cholesterol, this leads to a gradual decrease in blood cholesterol levels. The medicine is used mostly in patients with high cholesterol but normal blood fat levels.

The medicine does not replace the value of a proper diet. Often a person can significantly reduce the cholesterol level by getting rid of every last ounce of extra fat he doesn't need. The loss of excess fat alone often improves a patient's angina (chest pain from the heart) dramatically.

Questran is not a substitute for nitroglycerin. It is used just to help lower the cholesterol when it is needed. The nitroglycerin pills are for immediate relief of pain. However, individuals who succeed by diet and whatever means to decrease their body weight and cholesterol often have fewer, if any, attacks and therefore have less or no need for the nitroglycerin tablets.

Why don't all doctors prescribe Questran? A lot do for the right patients. Again, the right diet with associated weight reduction may make it unnecessary. In other patients doctors use other medicines that also lower cholesterol.

Finally, a lot of patients have quite a bit of gas and digestive complaints with Questran. This may cause the patient not to want to use it. For those who need it and tolerate it, Questran is a fine and important medicine.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Please tell me the correct way to breathe. I have heard that one is supposed to "inhale" through the mouth then "exhale" through the nose.

DEAR READER—I never cease to be amazed at the range of ideas people have about health. The normal way to breathe is in and out through the nose. If you can't do that because of nasal obstruction then you need an examination of your nose.

It is of some importance to breathe in through the nose as opposed to breathing in through the mouth because the air is filtered by the fine hair in the nasal passages. It is also warmed that way before it gets to the lungs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Observe all safety procedures while working today. Don't use the wrong tools just because they're handy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
The pursuit of a good time could carry a rather expensive price tag today. Have fun, but don't bust the piggybank.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Try not to agitate loved ones today by being too demanding. A few kind words will do more than many harsh commands.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Large problems you can handle in stride today, but your temper could easily be ignited by trivial annoyances. Keep things in perspective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Treat possessions with a light, loving hand today, or something you're very fond of could get broken in a moment of anger.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Avoid individuals today who are bossy. You won't be in the mood to be told how to run your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Nothing will be solved by brooding about a wrong you feel was done to you. Bring it out in the open to clear the air.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Don't try to overpower others or dominate the scene today among friends. Small waves will build up to a tidal force.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Be careful today you don't do something foolish just to spite someone. If you do, the loser will be you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You have a tendency today to make things harder for yourself than they really are. Get off your own back.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Think twice before making request today. Someone temperamental whose aid you'll seek will unreasonably assume he's being used.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
A rather volatile domestic issue may erupt today between you and your mate. Do all you can to cool the discussion.

Your Birthday
Oct. 3, 1975

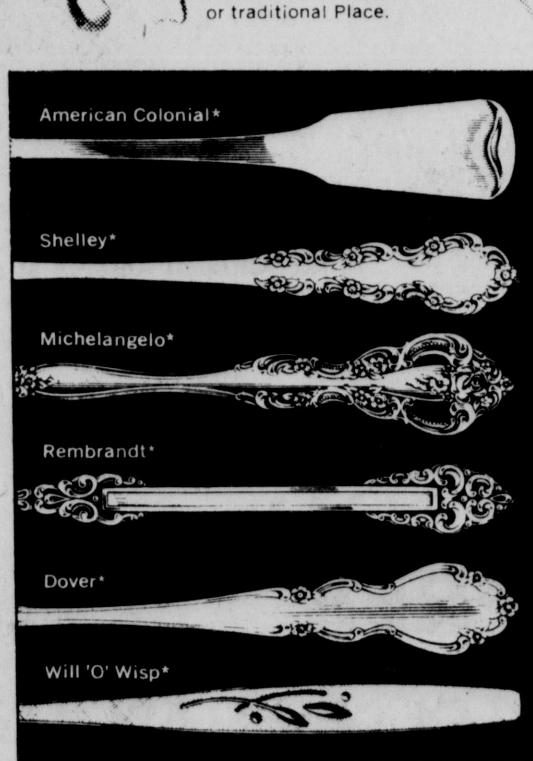

This coming year is not the time to give up on projects that have been slow to yield the type of results you've hoped for. Keep plugging. The end is now in sight.

Borg-Warner 6
Quarterback Dave Lenox fired four touchdown passes for the winners with a pair (25 and 20 yards) going to Rick Shroyer. Dave Love and Pat Love also tallied on a pass each. Shroyer added a third touchdown on a kickoff return. Brad Kipping, Ed Garland and Lenox scored the extra points. Fran Fasler chipped in with a safety. Farley's is now 2-0, with Borg-Warner 0-2.

Royal Palms 23, Eberly's 6
Don LeBlanc fired a five-yard pass to Dennis Trotter in the first quarter, a 40-yarder to Tom Ruffin in the third frame and then scored himself in the last quarter on a 10-yard run. Tim Wadsworth grabbed a conversion pass. The only Eberly's touchdown came on a 30-yard aerial from Jeff Covert to Mike Haney. The Palms remain tied with Farley's for first place with a 2-0 ledger, while Eberly's is now 0-1.

Redmen are third

PEORIA — Fred Parr of Illinois Central covered 5.1 miles in 27:36, here, Wednesday to lead his team to a triangular junior college cross-country victory. Illinois Central ended with 17 points to Kankakee's 45 and 58 for the Sauk Valley Redmen.

"We ran very well but we just met a lot better teams," Sauk Coach Dan Mabey explained. Joe Schuetz was the top Sauk finisher with a 30:50 clocking for eighth place while Mickey Trader was 10th in 31:44.

Dennis O'Neil grabbed 12th in 33:13, Tim Davis was next in 34:05 and Tim Huyett took 15th in 37:11. Jeff Robbe's 17th place in 37:41 rounded out the Sauk runners. The Redmen now go to the Blackhawk Invitational at Moline on Saturday.

Junior tackle

The Lincoln Cardinals took over undisputed first place in the Dixon Junior Tackle League by blanking the Jefferson Jets 22-0 at A.C. Bowers Field Tuesday. Stuart Cox scored the first Lincoln touchdown on a 40-yard end run. DeWayne MacRunnels tallied the two-point conversion.

Mike Mulkins then galloped 60 yards on a punt return for Lincoln. Cox added the conversion and later rounded out the scoring with a 25-yard end run. The blank job enabled the winners to keep their defensive record spotless in four games. Jefferson drops to 3-1. Jefferson meets Madison on Saturday with Lincoln taking on St. Mary's to begin the second round.

A total of 12 players were taken in the major league draft during the winter of 1973. The Cubs took Herb Hutson from Baltimore in one of the deals.

Expos fire Mauch

MONTREAL (AP) — Last Wednesday night, as Gene Mauch strolled to a position near second base at Jarry Park, a deep-throated chorus of boos rose from the crowd.

It was Fan Appreciation Night and the Montreal fans demonstrated without question they did not appreciate the managing efforts of Mauch, who guided the Expos to an unspectacular fifth-place tie with Chicago in the National League's East Division.

"The reason I decided to come out here is that I knew a lot of you would get a kick out of it," Mauch told the crowd. "Now that you've had a kick out of it, I want to introduce to you for the last time...this season...a bunch of guys you're going to be cheering for a long, long time."

Mauch could have stopped his second sentence with "last time," because he will no longer be introducing Expos players to Montreal baseball fans.

A week after his hostile reception from Montreal's baseball fans, Mauch's career with the seven-year-old Expos is history. Mauch, 49, was fired Wednesday along with all of his coaches—pitching coach Cal McLish, third-base coach Dave Bristol, first-base coach Walt Hrinak, bullpen coach Jerry Zimmerman and part-time batting instructor Duke Snider.

"It was the worst thing they could do," said pitcher Steve Renko. "Gene Mauch is a super man and a super manager. I'll tell you one thing, he never ever put the blame on any of his players."

"I think they fired him to cover up for themselves. Fans booing him? Do they know as much about baseball as Gene Mauch?"

"Gene Mauch is one of the finest managers in baseball. What did they expect us to do this year with all the young guys? We won 75 games with them and the most we ever won with experienced players was 79."

"Anyway, I don't mind what I say because I doubt if I'll be here next year," Renko concluded.

Mauch won 499 and lost 627 games during his tenure in baseball. He was hired Sept. 5, 1968, three months after being fired by the Philadelphia Phillies. He had been managing in Philadelphia from 1960 after taking over from Eddie Sawyer.

Expos President John

McHale said the decision to fire Mauch was made after a board of directors meeting and said there was a need for a change because the future Expos "need a different touch and a different type of handling."

McHale said the fans had a bearing on the decision but added they were not a major factor in the decision. "We must always listen to our fans," he said. "We were convinced they were looking for and wanted a change."

McHale said Mauch, who has been fighting a form of pneumonia for the past three weeks, "took the news like a professional."

"I'm fired," Mauch told his wife, Nina Lee, when she came home a few minutes later.

Douglass looks for job after release by Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — After six full seasons of rare glory and frequent disappointment with the Chicago Bears, Bobby Douglass is looking for a fresh start in football—and early indications are he'll have to look hard.

Douglass was released Wednesday by the National Football League team, and after failing to work out a trade deal for himself in the afternoon he was placed on waivers.

General Manager Jim Finks said he had talked first to five other NFL teams about a possible trade, but "there has not been any interest shown to date."

If the 6-foot-4, 228-pound southpaw is not claimed by another club at the $100 waiver fee before 4 p.m. EDT today, Douglass will be just another free agent.

Still, he is confident he'll be playing quarterback in the NFL this season. "...something will happen," he said. "I'll be a quarterback somewhere. It depends on contracts and circumstances."

Douglass' attorney, Herb Rudoy, called Finks' move "the coldest, the worst thing I've ever heard of in sports...I can't believe it. What a way to treat a human being after all the abuse he's taken. Who tries harder than Bobby?"

Douglass' departure leaves the Bears with two quarterbacks—third-year man Gary Huff and rookie Bob Avellini—and the situation had Finks hunting for another. A team spokesman said late Wednesday the Bears are talking with the NFL about the status of journeyman signal-caller Pete Beathard, who started this season with the now-defunct Chicago Winds of the World Football League. He bounced around the NFL for 10 years before.

BOBBY DOUGLASS

"Whether we will sign Beathard or not, we don't know," day the Bears are talking with the NFL about the status of journeyman signal-caller Pete Beathard, who started this season with the now-defunct Chicago Winds of the World Football League. He bounced around the NFL for 10 years before.

Larry MacPhail dies

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Larry MacPhail, a baseball innovator who revolutionized the game, will be buried Friday in the small Michigan town of Cass City, where he was born and raised.

MacPhail, who installed the first lights in a major league baseball park, thereby allowing night games, and who began Old Timers' Day, died Wednesday morning in a Miami, Fla., nursing home. He was 85.

"Larry MacPhail was dynamic, bombastic and smart," said Gabe Paul, president of the New York Yankees. "He made many contributions to baseball and I have a special place in my heart and my memories for him."

The first club president to fly his team to all road games and who tapped the Caribbean as a fertile ground for exhibitions and training camps, MacPhail built pennant winners of the Cincinnati Reds, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Yankees. He retired from baseball after his 1947 Yankees won the World Series.

"I'm finished," he said following the Yankees' victory over the Dodgers. "I promised my wife I'd retire when a team of mine won a World Series."

MacPhail, who came to be known as the "Barnum of Baseball," entered the sport in 1930 when he purchased the Columbus, Ohio, Senators of the American Association for $100,000. He rebuilt the team's park, adding lights, and quickly turned the club into a pennant winner. Then he sold it to Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals for a profit.

He then took over the Cincinnati Reds in 1933, a last-place team that was in debt. MacPhail installed lights there and got his friend, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, to switch them on.

Before long, MacPhail built a winner and the Reds won the National League pennant in 1939 and 1940, just after MacPhail retired from baseball for the first time.

He returned to baseball to do a similar rescue operation on the Dodgers. In Brooklyn's first night game after MacPhail installed lights, Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati pitched his second consecutive no-hit game.

But the Dodgers won the National League flag in 1941 and finished second in 1942 before the spokesman said. "At this point, we just want to talk to him about his football future. We want a third quarterback on our roster, preferably a veteran..."

Douglass also was the team's player representative in union negotiations with NFL management over a new contract.

He reportedly received more than $75,000 from the Bears. He was drafted in the second round in 1969 from Kansas University.

The Bears hailed him then as their "quarterback of the future," but that future is now the past.

Though his ability as a runner was never questioned and often praised, Douglass had continual problems passing. His professional completion percentage was .421, and his fate appeared sealed after he ran the offense in a 35-7 season-opening romp by the Baltimore Colts.

After the opener, rookie Coach Jack Pardee, who had stuck with Douglass through the preseason, said Huff would start instead of Douglass in last week's game against the Philadelphia Eagles. The Bears won 15-13 under Huff's stewardship and Pardee promptly tabbed Huff to start again this week against the Minnesota Vikings.

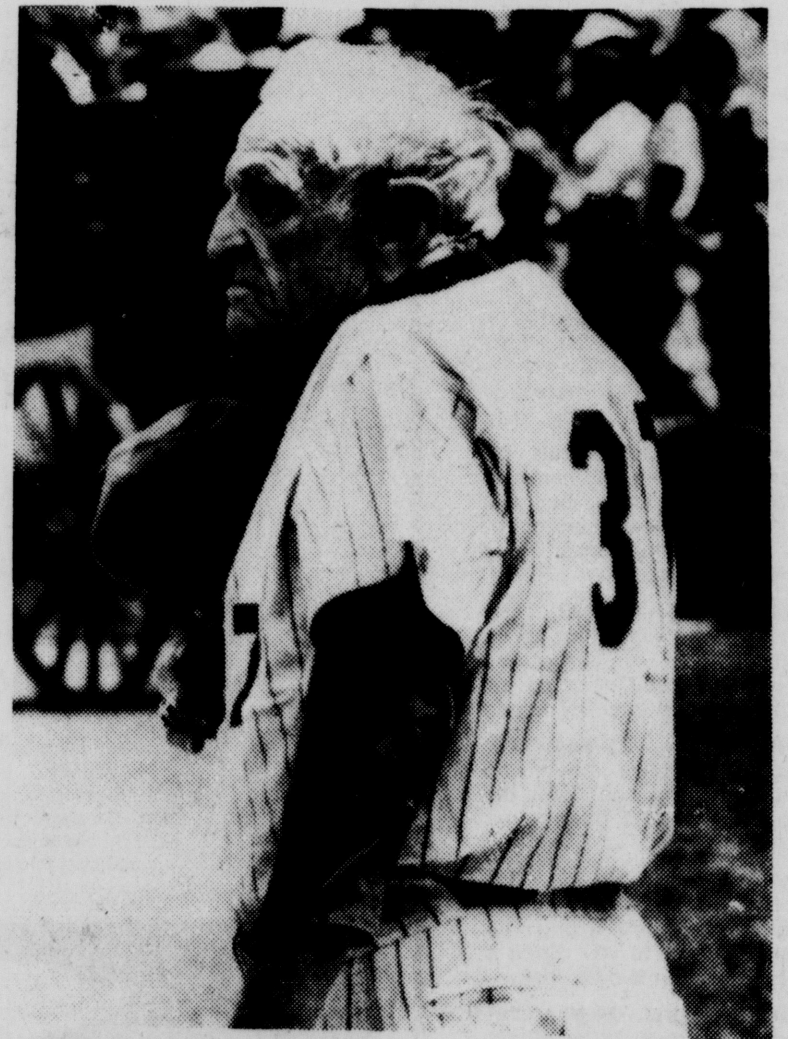

Douglass passed for 4,845 yards and 30 touchdowns and rushed for 2,436 yards and 19 touchdowns with the Bears. In 1972 he set an NFL record by gaining 968 yards on the ground, the most ever by a pro quarterback in one season.

MacPhail left the game once more, this time to join an Army unit during World War II.

After the war, he purchased the Yankees and returned them to power while introducing Old Timers' Day to Yankee Stadium.

In 1958, when the Braves were still in Milwaukee and the A's in Kansas City, MacPhail proposed a four-divisional setup for baseball—close to what exists today—with teams in Seattle, Denver, Dallas, Houston, New Orleans, Atlanta, Toronto, Montreal, Mexico City and Havana. He also suggested second teams be located in New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco and either Detroit or Philadelphia.

His survivors include his widow, Jean; two sons, Lee, president of the American League, and William, former vice president of CBS, and two daughters, Jeannie and Marian.

CHICAGO (AP) — If Chicago White Sox owner John Allyn still owns the American League team during the 1976 baseball season, he says his club will have a different sportscaster.
 Harry Caray will not be announcing White Sox games, Allyn said Wednesday.
 The financially pressed Allyn said he felt Caray was good for the team when he first began announcing the games, but that the situation had deteriorated recently.
 While conceding that announcers do not win or lose baseball games, Allyn said Caray's publicly expressed attitude toward the team has had a negative effect on team morale and park attendance.
 He also said he has received no written offer to purchase the White Sox from maverick sports promoter Bill Veeck. Veeck owned the White Sox in 1959, when the team last won the league pennant.
 Allyn added that he has been in touch with Veeck about a possible sale.
 There were published reports that Veeck, a native Chicagoan who now resides in Maryland, was pondering a $10-million offer for the team.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Love hit 10 points in the third period, but it was not enough to overcome stronger Kentucky who defeated the Chicago Bulls 95-86 in the first professional basketball exhibition game at the new Cincinnati Riverfront Coliseum.
 The American Basketball Association Colonels are scheduled to play 14 regular-season games in the new facility.
 The Bulls' Norm Van Lier, like Love a former player with the now-defunct Cincinnati Royals, lamented the fact that the Royals had failed in Cincinnati and moved to Kansas City.
 After viewing the 16,500-seat coliseum, Van Lier said: "Obviously they built that place for a hockey team. Why put a basketball team in here? They won't support it."
 The Colonels were led by Artis Gilmore and Wilbur Jons who had 22 points each and Marv Roberts added 17.

 Love's third-period drive cut the Kentucky lead to 70-69, but the Colonels outscored the Bulls 23-17 in the final period for an easy victory.
 ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have acquired two players who were on loan to their Tulsa farm club for the 1975 baseball season.
 In separate transactions Wednesday, the Cardinals obtained outfielder Mike Easler from the Houston Astros in exchange for pitcher Mike Barlow, and infielder Luis Alvarado from the Cleveland Indians in a swap for first baseman Doug Howard.
 Easler, 24, batted .313 last year at Tulsa and Iowa. He had 15 homers and 69 RBIs.
 Alvarado, 26, is a former Cardinal. He batted .139 in 17 games with the Cardinals in 1974 and then was traded to the Indians.

OTTAWA (AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks were beaten 6-3 in a National Hockey League exhibition game with Montreal Wednesday night as Pete Mahovlich, Jacques Lemaire, Yvon Lambert, Jim Roberts, Guy Lapointe and Doug Risebrough scored goals for the Canadiens.
 Keith Magnuson, Pat Martin and Dennis Hull scored for the Black Hawks, who had beaten Montreal 5-4 Saturday in Chicago.
 CHICAGO (AP) — The former captain of the Chicago Bears has resigned as executive vice president and general manager of the Chicago Sting of the North American Soccer League.
 Mike Pyle, 36, who joined the Sting in December for its inaugural season, said Wednesday he was leaving the job to pursue outside interests and fulfill other commitments.

Ali and Frazier hedge

MANILA (AP) — Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier both hedged on retirement plans today as they prepared to leave the scene of one of the greatest heavyweight title fights in ring history.
 "I don't want to retire as much today as I did after the fight yesterday," world titleholder Ali said, relaxing in his 21st-floor suite of a Manila hotel.

"Tomorrow I will want to retire even less. Somebody will come up with a big stack of money and I will be anxious to go again."
 Earlier, Frazier, calling a formal press conference said that, despite pleadings of his family to hang up his gloves, he would not make up his mind until he has explored all the alternatives with his trainer and advisor, Eddie Futch.

Illini host the Cougars in non-conference battle

CHAMPAIGN — The last of three consecutive non-conference football opponents, Washington State, challenges Illinois this Saturday in a 1:30 p.m., Memorial Stadium match-up.
 The Cougars, of the Pacific 8, follow Missouri (Big 8) and Texas A&M (Southwest) on the Illinois schedule.
 Illinois (1-2) has dropped successive games to Mizzou (30-20) and A&M (43-13), after opening with a win over Iowa (27-12). Washington State (2-1) suffered its first loss of the year last Saturday against California (33-21), after beginning with wins over Kansas (18-14) and Utah (30-14).
 Three successive Aggie touchdowns, in as many third-quarter plays, left Illinois out of reach of the 7th-rated A&M team at Kyle Stadium.
 "Their offense executed very well," Illinois coach Bob Blackman said. "They have a great deal of experience and experienced players just don't make many mistakes. Texas A&M is a legitimate contender for the national championship."
 After trailing 23-0 at the half, Illinois scored first in the third quarter on a 46-yard sideline scamper by tailback Chubby Phillips. The other Illini score came on a fourth-quarter Mike McCray to Earl Tate 58-yard pass play. Illinois' 224-yards in total offense was more than either of A&M's two previous opponents could total combined.

 The Illinois 48-man travelling squad to College Station, Texas had five noticeable deletions, in starters: tailback Lonnie Perrin, tight ends Joe Smalzer and Marty Friel, defensive end and co-captain Dean March and defensive tackle Rich Grimmett. All were out with assorted injuries.
 "I definitely feel that we'll be a better team when we get our two regular tight ends back to give us more blocking," Blackman said. Swingback Frank Johnson was temporarily moved to the vacant tight end position during last week's drills.
 Junior punter Phil Vierendeel averaged 45 yards-per-kick against the Aggies. His longest boots of the afternoon went for 71 and 63 yards.
 Vierendeel currently ranks third in Illinois' record book in: Total punts (145) and average (38.8), for a career. He has over a year-and-a-half remaining to add to those totals.
 Those Illini that remain as doubtful for the Washington State game include, Perrin (phlebitis) and March (knee cartilage), Smalzer (bruised thigh) and Grimmett (leg injury).
 Friel has had his ankle cast removed and is progressing "quite well" according to trainer Skip Pickering, and may be ready for WSU. Rover Rickie Mitchem was the only noticeable casualty following the A&M game; he aggravated a high school knee injury.

Announcing an average 29% mileage improvement for 1976 cars over 1975's at your Mercury dealer.

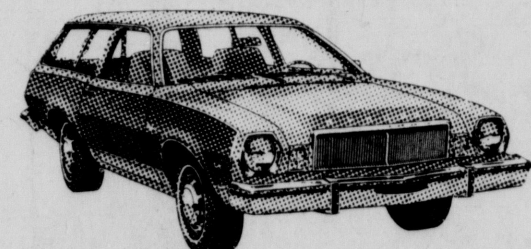

This is a weighted average based on a comparison of projected 1975 and 1976 sales of all models of Mercury cars and our computation of EPA test results for combined city/highway testing mix. While most of our cars improved for 1976 on the EPA City/Highway basis, some 1976 mileage improvements were not as dramatic as this average since their big improvements were made in 1975 models—like our MPG cars introduced in June. Note: California cars have different results.

Mercury Grand Marquis. 17 mpg highway, 13 mpg city with 400 2-V V-8 engine. The ultimate degree of Mercury luxury and elegance. From the car that made the blind-fold ride tests famous.

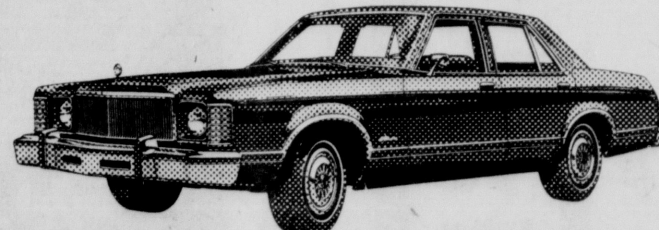

Mercury Montego MX Brougham. 19 mpg highway, 13 mpg city with 351 2-V V-8 engine. Mid-size price, gas economy and easy handling. Without sacrificing roominess, luxury and Mercury riding comfort.

Mercury Bobcat Villager MPV. 34 mpg highway, 24 mpg city with manual transmission. The room of a wagon; the same mileage estimate as our 3-door. Either way, when you get in a Bobcat, it's love at first drive.

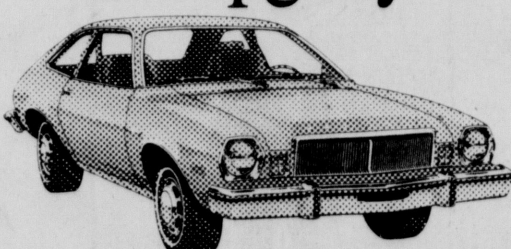

Mercury Cougar XR-7. 19 mpg highway, 13 mpg city with 351 2-V V-8 engine. As unique in its own class as Continental Mark IV. And now you can select a Silver Cat, a gleaming new Cougar at a new price.

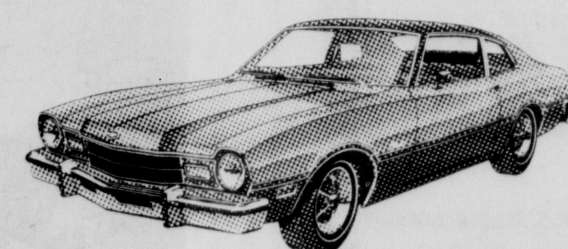

Mercury Monarch Ghia. 24 mpg highway, 18 mpg city with 250 6-cylinder engine, manual transmission. Last year, based on eight tests of handling and driving comfort on American roads, 41 out of 50 owners of American cars judged a 1975 Monarch Ghia superior all-around to a new Mercedes 280.

And two Bobcats estimated at 34 mpg highway, 24 mpg city.

Mercury Bobcat MPV. 34 mpg highway, 24 mpg city with manual transmission. Now you can get mileage that compares with the small imports in a solid little Mercury that gives you hundreds of pounds more car.

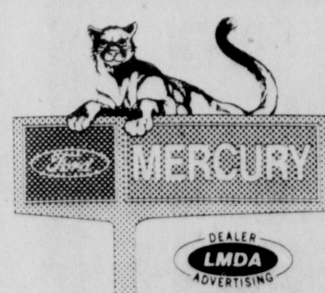

Mercury Comet. 23 mpg highway, 18 mpg city with 250 6-cylinder engine, manual transmission. Our tough, durable compact. In this dashing new optional Sports Accent Group and Sports Vinyl Roof, Comet's still low priced.

All fuel economy numbers are estimates based on EPA tests. Because of many engine and transmission combinations and optional equipment, the car you choose may perform differently. Furthermore, the gas mileage you actually get depends on you. Your type of driving. Your driving habits. Road and weather conditions. And how your car is maintained.

All cars shown with optional WSW tires and Bumper Protection Group.

Slowdown in crime rate indicated by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's crime rate still is going up but it may not be rising quite so fast as it has for nearly two years, according to new FBI statistics.

The statistics, issued Tuesday, showed that serious crime in the United States increased 8 per cent in the second quarter of 1975, compared with the same period a year ago.

But an 18 per cent surge in the first three months of the year pushed the six-month increase to 13 per cent higher than the rate for the first half of 1974.

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi called attention to the slower rate of increase but said, "We can claim no great solace in the fact that the rate in the rise of serious crime has lessened somewhat."

Levi called the crime rate unacceptable and said "crime remains an enormous national problem."

It's far too soon to say whether the slower rate of increase for April, May and June represents the beginnings of a downward trend. But the 8 per cent figure was the first time in 21 months that the increase has slowed to a level below 10 per cent.

The current upward spiral began with a 16 per cent surge in the final quarter of 1973 and as continued apace in each succeeding quarter.

The FBI Uniform Crime Reports list only statistics for seven crime categories, without theorizing about the reasons for increases or decreases.

The report is based on the number of murders, rapes, robberies, burglaries, assaults, larcenies and motor vehicle thefts reported to more than 8,000 state and local police agencies.

Other studies indicate there may be two or three times more crimes committed than is reported to police.

The latest report showed increases in all crime categories, in all regions of the country, in cities of all sizes and in the suburbs and rural areas as well.

Crime was up 14 to 15 per cent in rural areas, the suburbs, and towns of 25,000 or less in population. The increase was slightly less—12 per cent—in cities larger than 25,000.

By category, murder was up 4 per cent, rape 4 per cent, robbery 17 per cent, assault 9 per cent, burglary 14 per cent, larceny 14 per cent in North-eastern states, 12 per cent in North Central states and 10 per cent in Western states.

The report contains no state by state breakdown and only raw data, with no percentage increase or decrease, for selected cities.

Thought for today: There is one thing stronger than all the armies in the world, and that is an idea whose time has come — Victor Hugo, French writer, 1802-1885.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, a British supply ship bound for Boston, the Prince George, was seized when it entered the Portsmouth, N.H. harbor by mistake.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 2, the 275th day of 1975. There are 90 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1919, President Woodrow Wilson suffered a stroke, completely paralyzing the left side of his body.

On this date: In 1780, the British officer who negotiated Benedict Arnold's attempt to surrender West Point, Major John Andre, was hanged as a spy.

In 1804, the people of England were being mobilized to resist invasion by Napoleon Bonaparte.

In 1869, the Indian nationalist leader, Mohandas Gandhi, was born.

In 1889, the first Pan American Conference was held in Washington.

In 1941, in World War II, German armies launched an all-out drive against Moscow.

In 1967, the first black to sit on the U.S. Supreme Court, Thurgood Marshall, was sworn in.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

In London on Jan. 20, 1775, the weary William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, took the floor of the House of Lords and delivered a blistering attack on his colleagues: "Resistance to your Acts was necessary as it was just, and your vain declarations of the omnipotence of Parliament, and your imperious doctrines of the necessity of submission, will be found equally impotent to convince or enslave your fellow-subjects in America." Chatham was the foremost of the friends of America in Parliament, The World Almanac recalls.

Ten years ago: Indonesia's President Sukarno made a broadcast in Jakarta calling for restoration of order after a thwarted Communist-led attempt to overthrow the Indonesian government.

Five years ago: President Richard M. Nixon received an enthusiastic reception on a visit to Madrid, Spain.

One year ago: The U.S. House of Representatives sharply cut the transitional funds requested for Nixon's return to private life.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Groucho Marx is 80 years old. Writer and film critic Rex Reed is 35.

Cattle and hog gains lead farm price boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by hefty gains for cattle and hogs, farm prices jumped 3 per cent last month to their highest average in a year and a half, according to the Agriculture Department.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said Tuesday that its index of prices farmers receive for what they produce rose to 193 per cent of its 1967 base between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15. A spokesman said that was the highest reading since March 1974.

But J. Dawson Ahalt, USDA staff economist, said he sticks by the department's earlier forecast that retail food prices will go up an average of 9 per cent in 1975, compared with gains of 14.5 per cent in each of the previous two years.

Further, Ahalt said, cattle prices probably will come down some this fall as more animals move to slaughter plants, thus dampening another round of soaring beef prices. Pork prices however, will continue high because of farmers holding down hog production.

The report said higher prices for milk, eggs and wheat also contributed to last month's farm price boost, more than offsetting declines for potatoes, corn and soybeans.

Prices farmers pay for things they use rose 1 per cent during the month and averaged 7 per cent above Sept. 15 of last year.

Meat animals as a group went up 4 per cent during the month and were 29 per cent above prices a year earlier. Beef cattle, at $34.60 per 100 pounds, rose $1.50 from mid August. Hogs were up $2.50 and, at $58.50 per hundredweight, were the highest on record.

The average farm price of milk rose to $8.96 per 100 pounds, matching a record set in March 1974. The over-all dairy price index was up 6 per cent from August and was 12 per cent above Sept. 15 of last year.

Grain prices, which have been erratic lately because of uncertainty over the government's ban of sales to Russia and Poland, continued to indicate those effects in USDA's latest report.

Wheat rose 22 cents from mid August to $4.11 a bushel, compared with $4.32 on Sept. 15 last year. The price, however, was up substantially from $2.92 a bushel in June, just before sales to Russia were disclosed.

Corn, on the other hand, dropped to $2.76 a bushel, down 19 cents from mid August and 54 cents below a year earlier.

Soybean prices also declined to $5.32 a bushel from $5.80 in August. A year ago soybeans were $7.72 a bushel.

For potato farmers, the new report showed the bad news they already knew. Prices dropped to $4.23 per 100-pound bag, down $1.68 in one month but slightly more than their average of $4.05 on Sept. 15 last year.

Eggs, at a farm price of 55.8 cents a dozen, were up from 50.5 in August and averaged one cent more than they did a year before.

The notorious bank robber, John Dillinger, walked into an FBI trap and was shot down in Chicago, July 22, 1934.
